

GUITARS

striking example of the saving you can make in buying from us is this beautiful Queen Anne Period design. It is a bargain we are sure you will appreciate as soon as you try it and make comparisons with other standard phonographs selling at much higher prices. It has the same graceful sweeping lines, the elaborate record compartment, the double doors, the fine finish to be found in much higher priced phonographs. Workmanship and materials are of the best. Its fine musical qualities are unsurpassed by any phonograph on the market, regardless of name, make or price.

We have successfully built into this most delightfully designed upright model all the Truphonic characteristics which make this modern phonograph so desirable for the up to date home. The quality of its music will delight and surprise you here just as it does in any of our other models. Well made throughout, from interior mechanical equipment to exterior of genuine mahogany or walnut. The Arlington is one of our feature bargains, a value so sensational that it will astound you when you see and hear it in your own home. There it will be a constant source of pleasure and a pleasant reminder in the years to come of the outstanding savings offered by Sears, Roebuck and Co. Cabinet is 41 inches high, 18 1/2 inches wide, 19 1/2 inches deep. It is made of genuine mahogany or walnut. Equipped with the same durable double spring silver-tone motor, powerful and silent running, as well as all other mechanical fittings which are used in every one of our models, regardless of price. Five Silver-tone records (our selection) and needle assortment included. Shipped from PHILADELPHIA Store. Shipping weight, 120 pounds.
